

Germ Life Cannot Develop in a Herrick Refrigerator

Such a condition can only obtain from souring, still, moist air. Germs of decay need spots of uncleanness (unget-atable for cleaning) to lodge in. Gravity operates the Dry Air system of the Herrick, the Greatest Ice Saver known—constructed on genuinely scientific principles.

POLICEMAN MAY DIE, RESULT OF AUTO ACCIDENT

man had been thrown from his horse. Special Motoreye Officer William B. Ferry was called to the scene within a half hour following the accident. Ferry took a series of measurements in carrying out his investigation. He reports that the collision took place about 400 feet Walkiki of the intersection with the John Ena road. Ferry is of the opinion that the Welsh car was proceeding into town from a Walkiki resort at a fast rate of speed, the tracks left by the car indicating that it had forged ahead some 200 feet following its impact with the horse.

The forward portion of the automobile was completely wrecked. The radiator was crumpled up as if made of paper. The two front wheels were also damaged.

Welsh Arrested, Then Released. Welsh, who later appeared at central police station, was placed under arrest by Captain D. Kahanamoku, but at the instance of Sheriff Charles Rose the chauffeur was released after having been detained at the city jail for about one hour. Sheriff Rose stated that he was moved to release Welsh following the receipt of a statement from Reynolds which might lead him to believe that the accident was unavoidable.

"However, should Mounted Officer Moranho die as a result of the injuries received in the collision with the machine, Welsh will be rearrested and a charge of manslaughter will be filed against him," added the sheriff.

"I propose to follow this policy regardless of the finding of a coroner's jury. It's up to the territorial grand jury to either indict or release Welsh."

Reynolds is said to have given a clear account of the affair to the officers. He states that the machine was stopped several hundred feet from where Moranho fell, the party picking up the injured and unconscious man, while Welsh was sent to the home of H. Kennedy to telephone for the Reynolds car. In this machine, Moranho was taken to Queens hospital for treatment.

Reynolds Notified Rose. Reynolds then drove to the home of Sheriff Rose and that officer was told of the accident. In the meantime Welsh is said to have reported to the police at central station, the women in the party being hurried to their hotel.

Special Officer Ferry states that as near as he could judge neither Welsh nor Reynolds were under the influence of liquor.

Welsh Tells of Ride. "In company with two women, recently arrived here from the coast whom we met by appointment, Reynolds and myself started from town in my machine shortly after 12 o'clock last night for a ride about the city and country," was the statement given by Welsh to the Star-Bulletin at noon today. The same statement was made to Sheriff Rose.

He made vigorous denial of the report that the women in the party were performers at a local theater. Welsh professed not to know their names, insisting that he had met them for the first time last night.

"We first visited Moanaina, the golf links, proceeding in this direction as far as Red Hill, then returning through the city and going out in the direction of Walkiki. We took the road that circles Diamond Head, coming back towards town by the way of Kapiolani park," further stated Welsh.

"I am not a drinking man, and had touched nothing in the way of intoxicants during the evening," he insisted. Welsh was positive that no member of the party had been drinking and also that no liquor had been taken along on the trip.

Welsh was asked if he himself or any of the party had visited any beach resorts, and replied in the negative.

"The mounted police officer appeared before me like a man rising from the very ground. He was less than 15 feet from me when I first noted the presence of the man on horseback."

"The machine was going at 20 miles an hour, to the best of my knowledge," added Welsh.

He also stated that during the several hours that the party were touring the city, the lights of the machine were burning brightly.

"I distinctly remember sounding my Klaxon horn in passing the street railway crossing on Kalakaua avenue near Fort De Russy," added Welsh in the way of explanation.

According to Welsh, he was at the wheel of the car, the remainder of the seat being occupied by one of the women. Reynolds and the other woman were in the rear of the machine.

Mounted Officer Manuel P. Moranho joined the force as a patrolman in February and was soon after his appointment he was promoted to the post of a mounted officer. Prior to his entering the service he was identified with the Honolulu Rapid Transit Company as a motorman. He was born in the islands, Kona, Hawaii, being his birth place. Moranho is unmarried and about 26 years of age.

It may be to a man's credit to forget a lot that he knows.

HENRY P. JUDD WOULD SECURE MANY VISITORS

Hawaii, which has been touring in the East this spring, has been Hawaii in the mind of the public.

"The wonderful popularity of Doctor Baldwin, 'Carry the News,' regarded by experts as in a class all by himself has caused the public to ask questions about Hawaii. The good work done by island people as they travel in the East and speak a good word for Hawaii, is more and more apparent. Last but not least, the presence at Harvard, Yale, Cornell and other universities of a group of island boys, full of enthusiasm and love for Hawaii, has done great things in spreading abroad knowledge concerning the Paradise of the Pacific. Phonograph records of Hawaiian songs are in great demand and ukuleles are becoming quite popular in certain eastern centers."

"I am constantly being asked questions concerning Hawaii, and am doing what I can to arouse interest in the islands and get the people to go out to Honolulu for a visit."

With the announcement that a large number of Japanese stores and dwellings in Motiuli were in danger of total destruction by fire, the department visited the scene at 9 o'clock last night only to find that the alarm was a false one, and inspired by some practical joker. The police are today investigating the affair.

Allan Renton, alleged by the police as driving car number 136, is reported to have figured in a collision with a Japanese named Maruichi, riding a bicycle, the accident taking place last evening on Beretania street. The Japanese was thrown from his mount and received a bruised arm and a cut forehead. Renton states that he was following the right hand side of the road.

Demingo Andrada, a Filipino, has been detained by officers from Captain of Detectives McDuffie's department, it being alleged that the man is implicated in the illicit sale of liquor. The Filipino is alleged to have informed the police that wine and beer were being sold in the rear of the Chinese theater. Investigation proved that the intoxicants had been provided by Andrada, who placed a Chinese in charge of the business, and then turned informer with the hope of reaping reward generally offered in such cases.
